

The Last Supper

Bread and Wine

- Ways of remembering people:
 - photos,
 - diaries,
 - memories of shared times together,
 - memories "told" to us (stories of the war),
 - letters,
 - things they had (music box of Helen's grandparents),
 - grave-stones,
 - places associated with the person,
 - music associated with the person
 - Passover as a way of remembering a rescue
 - lamb killed to remember that God took the first born... and that the lamb was killed in place of people by God's people
 - blood spattered over doorways at Passover
 - bread made without yeast, because of haste
 - Video clip of Passover/Last Supper...

Remember me!

- Bread and wine as ways of remembering Jesus dying
 - and of the rescue he entailed
- Resonating with the Passover
 - context can change what we say.... if I were to say to Helen "I love you" I know she'd know I meant it!
 - but if we were to go to one of the places that was special to us as we were getting to know each other it might communicate something more!
- Jesus said "remember me" - but he said it in the context of Passover, a rescue by God!
- So when his disciples did remember later, and remembered how he'd died:
 - how his blood was spilled
 - how his body was broken
 - then they'd associate that with rescue by God!
